

Jarrold Reeson is Maury County's newest addition to the University of Tennessee Extension staff. Jarrod's responsibilities include working in Maury County schools with 4-H groups, as well as, the Master Gardener program. Jarrod is originally from Barneveld, Wisconsin, where he grew up on a small, family owned dairy farm. Jarrod spent ten years in the 4-H program in Wisconsin where he participated in showing dairy cattle at the local, county, district and state levels. Following college, Jarrod spent approximately six years as an active duty soldier in the United States Army, deploying twice to Iraq with the 101st Airborne Division out of Fort Campbell, KY. In 2010, Jarrod was honorably discharged from the Army and subsequently found employment with the Department of the Army as a civilian. Jarrod was interested in getting back into agriculture and enrolled into Colorado State University's AgriBusiness program, where he graduated with a Bachelor of Science in 2016.
